are customers-
And we treat them accordingly!
Basically, what we're selling is ourselves. If you like us and the way we do business, you'll probably come back. If you don't like our way of doing business, you'll probably go elsewhere.
Everybody here—and we mean everybody—has just one job—to keep you satisfied. Whether you come in for a new car or truck, or a small repair job, you get three things:
1. Honest value for your money.
2. The complete attention and skill of the employee serving you.
3. Friendly, courteous treatment.
If you don't get all three, let us know immediately. You'll be doing us a favor. You'll be doing yourself a favor, too—you'll be helping to keep this the kind of place you like to come back to.

FATHER DARKLEAF

By The Editor

Our friend, T. W. Odor was in town to bring some old issues of the Times-Virginian he had saved through the years. Many of readers keep the county paper around for months and even years. Some really fades away? Adds to the advertising value, doesn't it?

It may be "old stuff" to farmers but there are plenty of us who do not know to tell the age of a horse by trying to chew a bush. If the animal has no birth certificate (registration papers) you look at the age question like this: At 12 months or younger, all the front incisor teeth are in place. At 15 months, the center pair of lower teeth may be replaced by a center pair of permanent incisors, these being through when but not yet in wear. At 18 months, the center pair of permanent incisors should be fully up and in wear, but the next pair, the first intermediates, have not "cut the gums. At 3 years, there should be three pairs of broad teeth in full up with the corner permanent teeth and in wear and the first milk teeth may be shed or shedding, just appearing through the gums.

At the University of Corpus Christi, Texas, 14 young women were awarded the PHT degree. That stands for 'Putting Hubby Through.' They worked and earned "he money husbands could attend college.

Everyone has been acclaiming the quality of the folks down at Mt. Comfort Methodist Church. Their homecoming last Sunday was attended by over 400 people. And at noon hour there was a record dinner for all.

Hard to believe shot at and missed, there are few things more satisfying than to go on a motor trip and without accident and find it well on the home front.

Revival at New Hope

Uncle Sam Says

Purchase of U. S. Defense Bonds is the way whereby you can make your dollars work for America, just as they work for you. Our country must be strong economically. It should be apparent to everyone that defense is expensive. Your part is to buy Defense Bonds. Every employee in a business establishment should sign for the Payroll Savings Plan at his bank. Non-bank employers here or there will accept applications with everyone doing his part, Uncle Sam and America will be economically strong.

A H S Gridders Plan Tough Schedules

What shapes up as the stoutest schedule ever attempted by an Appomattox High School football team is now being completed by Coach Gordon Bragg. Coach Bragg concedes that it is a tough schedule, but shyly points out that he has for a rugged squad this year able to play tough opponents. On the list are E. C. Glass J. V.'s, Crewe Randolph - Henry, Blackstone, Bedford, Altavista, Brookville, Schoefield, South Boston and Farmville.

Six games will be played here at night at the Lee Park. Homecoming game will be the Blackstone tilt on October 5.

Lightly tapped by graduation, the squad boasts boys who have been playing under Coach Bragg for three years.

Seek Funds For Childrens' Home Society

Edward A. Wayne of Richmond, chairman of the state-wide annual solicitation for the Children's Home Society of Virginia, announces the appointment of Mrs. J. Garland Plunkett as county chairman for Appomattox County. The solicitation will be conducted during the month of August.

Mr. Wayne, who is a vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond said, "We are glad to secure Mrs. Plunkett and are looking forward to a successful campaign in Appomattox County. We do not expect to achieve an easy success in our efforts to raise $150,000 throughout the state, but we know how very important our work is. The Society took large numbers of tables into care during both the first and second world wars and we know that mobilization and the consequent dislocation of normal family life will increase the calls made on us. They are increasing already."

Farm Survey Planned Here On Policies

A "grass-roots" survey of U. S. Department of Agriculture farm policies is getting under way in Appomattox County, E. R. Gowin, the chairman of the County Agricultural Mobilization Committee said this week.

The survey, known as the Family Farm Policy Review, is part of a statewide canvass designed to touch every farm family. County agricultural mobolization committees, composed of persons representing various state and federal farm agencies, will be responsible for conducting the survey, Mr. Gowin said.

He explained that the purpose of the survey is to get a critical analysis of the Department's farm policies, with the ultimate objective of improving service to farmers.

"The Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Land-Grant Colleges, farm organizations, and other interested groups," Gowin said, "has initiated, and expects to carry through a nation-wide, Department-wide review and critical analysis of its programs and policies to determine ways in which they can provide more effective and efficient service to the family farm during this period of mobilization emergency as well as in peacetime."

In reviewing the policies of the 12 agencies of the Department of Agriculture, farmers will be asked to recommend changes, suggest new programs, and advise what portions of present programs could be abolished. The findings will be submitted to the State Agricultural Mobilization Committee to become a part of a state-wide report. The survey must be completed by September 15.

"What the Department wants and needs are the recommendations of farmers themselves and others interested in agriculture for the improvement of farm programs," Mr. Gowin said.

Dr. Christian Back From The Golden West

Everyone thought Hopalong Cassidy, the famed cowboy, was in town today. But the man with the cowboy hat, gay shirt and general appearance of a knight of the golden west turned out to be Dr. D. A. Christian, just back from an extended motor trip which took him all the way to the Pacific coast. The genial physician had plenty to tell of his cross-continental travels, and he's likely to be called upon to relate his travelogue over and over.
